CUPID'S MISTAKE.

"Tis useless, foolish Cupid,
To aim at him your dart;
For can't you see—you stupid!—
That he has lost his heart?"
"Why so he has," said Cupid;
"I'll aim, sweet maid, at you;
For though, I may be stupid,
I see that you have two!"
—Ladies' Home Journal.

APROPOS OF SOCIETY.

Society is rather quiescent just now. Probably the weather is largely responsible for the lack of social energy, but, at any rate, it has the merit of making one acquiescent as well, for really one's desires wilt as well as one's energy in times like these. There has been some entertaining done, and there is no lack of little informal gatherings and various amusements. People are being decidedly more social and informal these warm evenings than in cooler days, and nearly every verandah has a crowd of gay occupants. Some have their ping-pong tables on the lawn and are enjoying this sport in the evening's despite the heat. The charming summer homes have had their relays of town guests all week, and have made a "cool wave" for some fortunate beings.

La Belle park and the summer theatres have of late relegated to disuse a most alluring pleasure, which very sensibly has been revived this week, and that is the rowing parties that used to be such a delightful feature of Paducah's summer pleasure. This is decidedly the coolest and most delightful way to spend a hot evening, and to make you forget the ills of a rising temperature—and temper.

Probably next week will be a gayer one. We already have a few visitors and more are booked to come, and visitors are ever a "bracer" to Paducah's social life, making us equal to all things.

So far, the principal event of the coming week is the commencement on Monday evening when The Kentucky will be crowded with the friends of the fair graduates. The class is not only unusually large, but contains an unusual number of social favorites. The "fair boy graduate" is in evidence, too, which is not always the case, and he should be made much of, even if he cannot wear a white organdie and look "fetching." All honor to those who have so persevered and achieved. May the "enthusiasms of life" never desert them and may they always have the touch of pleasure and interest that attends a "commencement day."

DANCE AT LA BELLE PARK.

The dance at La Belle park pavilion on Thursday evening was most delightful affair and largely attended. GOES OVER TO AUTUMN.

Frankfort, June 14.—The Howard appeal case, owing to the early adjournment of court, will, like the Powers case, go over until fall. The arguments were made too late for a decision at this term.

FLOATING CIRCUS.

THE LATEST AMUSEMENT WILL SOON START OUT FROM PITTSBURG.

The people of Paducah have seen numberless river shows, including floating palaces and prize fights, but the latest thing to be started is a floating circus.

Captain W. H. Hatch, an enterprising citizen of Parkersburg, W. Va., is fitting out a floating circus at Pittsburgh, which will have a seating capacity for 2,000 people, and it will start on a tour of the Ohio river July 4, making East Liverpool the first stop. W. P. Newman and J. T. Hervey, capitalists of New Martinsville, are backing the enterprise, and the company has purchased a number of barges which will be decked over and enclosed, and on these the ring will be built. The outfit will be electric lighted.

SUCCESSFUL TRIP.

THE GOLDENROD COMPLETED HER TOUR OF THE RIVERS.

The United States lighthouse tender steamer, Goldenrod, has returned to Louisville, after her annual spring junket to the beacon lights on the Ohio, Great Kanawha and Tennessee rivers, covering 1,600 miles, and attending the wants of 533 lights. Captain Horton, her commander, reports a pleasant and successful junket, during which he established a new light at Grand Chain, in the lower Ohio, and another at Colbert Shoals, in the Tennessee. There are 34 lights on the Great Kanawha, 45 on the Tennessee and 454 on the Ohio, but for the total there are only 500 keepers, as at some places on this river one man attends possibly to several lights, as is the case at Caseyville. The average yearly cost of one of these lights is $125, and the annual appropriation for the work is $67,500.
